

Project Profile

McGladrey

Baltimore, MD

McGladrey has used Global and Evolve for many locations throughout the United States. The Global and Evolve broad product offering, distribution model and clean design contributed to McGladrey's decision to use Evolve as their national standard.

McGladrey is an industry-leading professional services organization that believes a "one-size-fits-all" approach is not the way to solve today's complex business challenges. Customization is key and this approach applies not only to solutions they provide to their clients but also when outfitting their office spaces in cities such as Baltimore, Miami and Philadelphia with employee work stations. McGladrey chose the Evolve system as their solution because of the customization and flexibility it provided in delivering an ecofriendly workspace that best meets the needs of their organization and employees.

The space incorporates the use of lower panels of alternating heights to highlight the spectacular views of Baltimore's Inner Harbor that surround the office space.

design details

- Multi-city installation including 140 work stations in Baltimore, 60 work stations in Philadelphia and 28 work stations in Miami
- National Standard with Global and Evolve
- The work station panel systems installed include fabric acoustic, slat wall and raceway power modules

design impact

This project is in a premier space in the Legg Mason building located in the Inner Harbor district of Baltimore, Maryland. From just about any interior standing position, there are beautiful views of the harbor's docks, water, stadiums and the surrounding buildings. Evolve's clean, sharp and coherent design was chosen to compliment these views.

Installation: July, 2010
